Fulcrum IT Services Company Announces Private Equity Partnership Investment provides foundation for additional growth

Manassas, VA, April 15, 2010 – Fulcrum IT Services Company (“Fulcrum IT”), an information technology systems and services company, announced today that the management team in partnership with Boyne Capital Partners and Grindstone Partners completed the buyout of Fulcrum IT. The Company was founded in 1987 and is focused on providing solutions to Defense and Civilian agencies of the Federal government.

Fulcrum IT provides mission critical services in five distinct categories: (i) enterprise services, (ii) applications development, (iii) data management and storage, (iv) information assurance and security and (v) intelligence analysis. All current management will remain at the Company with Mr. Jeff Handy continuing to serve as the President and CEO and Mr. Carroll Johnson as the CFO.

“We continue to grow our customer list of leading intelligence agencies and cutting edge civilian agencies, and we will now be able to bring even greater resources to our customers”, said Mr. Handy. “Our new investors will help us drive new growth strategies and new service capabilities and resources and we’re very excited about the partnership”, added Handy.

Mr. Handy joined Fulcrum IT in 2001 and has led the business for the past six years. He has extensive experience and background in the federal IT services industry and he previously worked in executive positions as President of GMRI, and a Vice President at BTG, Inc. Mr. Handy serves on multiple Boards and will continue on the Fulcrum IT Board.

Mr. Derek McDowell, Managing Partner of Boyne Capital, said “Fulcrum IT has built a terrific legacy of providing top notch service and delivery to its customers. The management team is very seasoned and has built a substantial organization serving some of the leading agencies of the government. We are very excited to partner with Jeff and Carroll to support their initiatives for the business.”
